crushed his McDonald, tearing the victim's pulse, found that life remained, and he immediately called an ambulance.

DIED IN AMBULANCE
When McDonald returned he found the ambulance there, also a telephone call which was Thomas Ray, 1037 71 avenue, who had been "flagged" for the ambulance men to arrive.

After the ambulance men arrived, a hand-breathing machine was used to revive the victim, but the ambulance men were unable to revive him.

A car upon the scene all simultaneously with the ambulance men, and an investigation which yielded little or no results as no witnesses were present.

Apparently none were passing at the time and the crash, which occurred in the middle of the road, was not heard in nearby houses.

MAY HAVE "TURNED OUT"
At the point where the taxi left the road, there are three shoulders. Police gave the opinion that Anderson must have tried to turn out for a passing car—and the speed at which he crashed was such that a slippery road, sent the heavy car hurtling sideways across the road.

Several feet of deep snow, which was not cleared, was found to finish-up with terrific impact. The car was found in the middle of the deep impression.

DAMAGE TERRIFIC
Investigation showed that the rear end of the limousine and chassis were swung "V" shape around the road, so that the point of impact was in the middle of the road.

The side of the vehicle was torn apart, and Anderson, who was believed, struck the point of impact as his skull was badly fractured.

Throughout the night police officers pursued investigation, endeavoring to find some person who was in the vicinity of the crash. They were in the theory that Anderson's car was being driven by the driver, endeavoring to avoid the deep impression of ice, to save passage to another car.

Due to lack of a single witness, it was useless holding an inquest, which was held at police headquarters Saturday morning, as no probe by the coroner would be of any value.

SAARBRUCKEN, Saar Basin Territory, Jan. 10.—Saarlanders set to work Friday to prepare the triumphant reception they will give Adolf Hitler when he comes here when they hand their territory over to the Nazi Fatherland.

A curt "good morning," meanwhile, was the comment of most residents of the Saar, which voted overwhelmingly Sunday to return to Germany for the next ten years.

Some 1,500 or 2,000 Saarlanders, facing Nazi terrorism, have fled the basin since Sunday.

Saarlenders heard with jubilation that the first German police will set foot in the Saar March 1.

After the parade for the next day, which the Nazis Brown and Blackshirts are expected to arrive Sunday, March 3, to survey his new territorial acquisition.

German officials are expected to arrive with an address urging the German people to welcome the new territory.

Public officials Friday began greeting each other with "Heil Hitler," the Nazi salute.

Hauptmann Showing Signs Of Breakdown

Within the past two days the frosty isolation of Bruno Hauptmann has shown signs of breaking down. Thursday he excitedly and anxiously gave the lie to a writer, in his latest courtroom picture, Hauptmann is talking to the man whom he depends to save his life, Edward J. Reilly, chief defense counsel. With that exception, Hauptmann has been carried forward in the effect of the trial.

Tariffs Propose And Nature Disposes

By R. T. ELLIOTT, K.C.

Below is set out a New Year's announcement in the Seattle Post-Intelligencer. It is worth reading, it is good and it tells a story of hauling grain first by rail to tidewater, and then by steamship about eleven thousand miles in successful competition with the lower waterway. It is true that for some purpose grain might be preferred to wheat; but in a case of feed shortage, the cheapest and nearest of grain is used:

60,000 TONS OF GRAIN MOVE NORTHWARD

Seattle and Other Pacific Coast Ports Receive Cereal From Southern Hemisphere

In the heaviest movement of Argentine corn to Seattle and other Pacific Coast ports in years, more than 60,000 tons of the grain will be offload and headed this week before the end of the present month, it was estimated yesterday by Seattle grain and shipping men.

Three full cargoes already have been reported and at least two more discharges are expected to be taken to expedite the delivery of the corn which is badly needed for stock and poultry feed.

The turn in trade which brings foreign trade here results from the short crop in the United States, estimated at about half normal. Also the Argentine product can be laid down here cheaper than American corn under present conditions.

While berth lines to South America have been booked, large parcels, shipments from the American corn belt by rail or from the Gulf have virtually stopped. However, shipping men point out that these purchases in Buenos Aires will permit the exporting of more North-west products to South America.

Seattle grain men say that the entire Argentine corn crop could be absorbed by the American market.

The government of Argentina does not let any tariff question it necessary to negotiate for months until the rate is lost. Quotation is given to any responsible agency immediately.

Dispatches from France indicate that over twenty million bushels of wheat have been arranged for shipment as cattle feed to the United States.

Tariffs, quotas, and treasury valuations are all forgotten when the forces of nature bring about a scarcity, as in the United States; and when production as in the case of Argentina and France. Business must be done here and here by the government. Even Russia and the Irish Free State have realized the force of natural law.

Canada seems to be the one remaining nation in which leaders continue to chatter about recovery by reform of non-essential methods of administration, while leaving the rest of the country to special privilege which strangle commerce and destroys real estate values.

Peace Tories Back Bennett

PEACE RIVER, Jan. 18.—The Peace River Federal Conservative Association was formed on Wednesday night. A resolution, forwarded to Premier Bennett, was passed expressing the support of the local association for the federal government's new policy as announced recently.

The following officers were elected: Hon. president, H. R. Bennett, Premier Minister of Canada; vice-president, J. D. MacGillivray, M.L.A.; leader of the provincial Conservative, president, Alex. McLeod; vice-president, Walter H. MacLeod; secretary, E. E. Taylor, Esq. Clerk, J. C. Newman and Dr. J. A. Adams.

U.F.A. Moves For Covering Interest

CALGARY, Jan. 18.—A United Farmers' Association of Canada, Calgary, has decided to cover interest of 50 per cent in debt and interest was written into the books of the association. The move was made by the 27th annual convention of the United Farmers of Alberta held here today.

Aids to agriculture, including farm credit, crop insurance, and so on, as practicable, and a national farm bank, were also discussed. Also were included in the declaration of principles which will form the platform for the U.F.A. as the government party, will fight for Alberta general election this year.

Helping the farmer, the U.F.A. of Canada, is the newest Cinderella of the scene. George White, state producer, saw her in the United States and induced her to join a revue. Now she's in Hollywood, though for beauty roles.

Being Opinions of Bulletin Readers are spring and the winners of the nightmarish are well known. No doubt you will be urged by some to read the Bulletin, but before you do so, ask yourselves a few questions.

During my rational moments, I am always asking myself the question, "What is it anyway?" On the surface it is a collection of news items, but it is also a collection of the opinions of the Bulletin readers.

Here is a collection of opinions of Bulletin readers. It is a collection of the opinions of the Bulletin readers. It is a collection of the opinions of the Bulletin readers.

Editor Bulletin: That great leader of the Italian people, Mussolini, recently knows how to lead a nation. He states that private financial interests are stronger than the state and that he can only see one solution—an incorporated state. Another bold challenge. Who, but can admire the courage of the man who dares to think of his system?

It must be very evident to sound thinking men—that it is only through legislative power, that the state can enforce its will. It is a force which is riding our necks.

We are learning through the teachings of Major Douglas and other such advanced students of the science of money, that the forces of the present system are working to the detriment of the people.

What other great character of the world has ever lived? We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed with certain inalienable rights, among which are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

The Great Master enjoyed us to do unto others as we would expect they do unto us. Need more authority be quoted?

The seasons, days, crops, people, opinions alternate—a vast sea of change. Let one man's opinion count the world. In a few years it will be a different world.

For the purpose of the world, the people of the world are united in their struggle for the purpose of the world. The people of the world are united in their struggle for the purpose of the world.

NOTED PASTOR WARNS FLOCK OF DOCTRINES OF CULT OF HUMANITARIANISM Dealt With in New York Sermon

The cult of humanitarianism is "the most dangerous of the great modern heresies" because it worships modern man as a "new god" and at the same time "supports a program of state control that is utterly at variance with sound notions of human liberty," said Philip J. Furlong, minister at high mass in St. Patrick's cathedral, New York.

Humanitarianism will hurry the human race to destruction as surely as "the adequate humanitarianism" of the Catholic Church, Furlong asserted, warning his listeners to be on their guard against the false doctrines of the modern world, particularly the churchless Christ, the religion of culture, the cult of happiness and the religion of humanitarianism.

If you were to ask a group of thinking people to characterize our age, after calling it progressive and mechanistic, they would probably tell you this is the age of disillusionment," he continued. "Why? Because duty and obligation have been set aside. Foremost is the weakening of religious ties. From this defection, or because of it, the cult of humanitarianism has grown up. It contains nothing new. Actually it is founded on the social service brought into the world by Christianity; it nevertheless denies its founder and having separated itself from truth, it must end in catastrophe. Actually it denies the very humanity that it proposes to save."

Humanitarianism is by its very nature a direct attack upon the Catholic Church, "whether its devotees intend it or not," Furlong asserted, warning that such an attack jeopardized society and democracy "because democracy is a daughter of the church."

"However, there is an adequate type of humanitarianism—founded on the Christian faith. This is the humanitarianism of the church," he said. "Its teachings of charity and justice contain the complete and perfect answer to the human race. Turn to the gospel and you will find that the teaching is astounding. Humanitarianism is a failure because it is too selfish, too humanistic. In place of the teaching of Christ, the regular inadequate type of humanitarianism sets up a sociological creed and the Marx and Lenin are its prophets."

LONDON, Jan. 16.—A unique office of great dignity in the Church of England has fallen vacant through the premature death of Rev. Spencer C. Carpenter, D.D., Master of the Temple to the hierarchy of the church and the highest of legal chambers and historic living quarters in the heart of London. Dr. Carpenter has been master for four years.

Temple church is celebrated the world over for its beauty and its antiquity, and also for the high character of the music rendered there. It is one of the five surviving round churches in England and dates from 1185. The floor of the church is covered with the remarkable effigy of men in armor. Originally the "Church of the Knights Templar," the temple itself was built just outside the city walls, the exact location of his grave has been known since the church was born in the Temple chambers. Thackeray lived there for some years, and gave his celebrated fictional character, Arthur Pendennis and George Warrington, lodgings in his residence.

The master of the temple, who is appointed by the crown, has a fine old house close to the church in

Peter's Lesson in Humble Service

By the Rev. Alvin E. Bell and Alfred J. Buescher
Scripture—John 13:1-17; 1 Peter 5:3

On their way to Jerusalem Jesus had heard His disciples disputing among themselves as to which of them was to be the greatest in the kingdom they thought He was sent to establish. They continued to argue about this even at the Lord's Table.

The man who gave Jesus the use of the room in which to eat the Passover Supper with His disciples left the pitcher, basin and water at the door provided no slave to use them, thinking that Jesus would have His own servant.

WARM CLOTHES FORWARDED TO DROUGHT AREA

More Than 200 Bales of Garments Shipped to Manitoba

With the effort now practically complete 221 bales of clothing have passed through the United Church office at Winnipeg for distribution in the drought region of southwestern Manitoba. In all, over 7,000 items have been received and a few bales are still expected from the United Church pastors serving in the drought area and most of the garments, coats and bedding have now been distributed.

The shipments came mostly from Ontario, although shipments were received from Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island. The Winnipeg church also contributed, as did some of the rural churches in the more fortunate areas of the province.

Letters have been received from the pastors to whom the shipments were made and all expressed their appreciation for the donations. The donations are, it is stated, so far as clothing is concerned, the requirements of the people in the drought region have been pretty well looked after. One pastor is riding in one of the most afflicted counties wrote to state that as a result of the gifts, the anxiety of the family in the face of the territory he covered which was now in need of clothing.

More than 1,700 bales of clothing and numerous Christmas gifts have been received at the St. James' Saskatchewan. At least 300 bales of clothing for Northern Alberta have been received at Edmonton and sent to 30 ministers in the Peace River country for distribution to United Church pastors of British Columbia are looking after the responsibilities in their own province.

Canada Sees Drama In Trans-Continental Airway Construction

Stepping Along

By Henry Holt

WANTED: several first-class reformers, must be sincere, must have the ability to say with the job until it is finished. No salary is offered, but success will bring its own reward.

Not the above is taken from the men-walled columns of a newspaper, it is a true statement of the situation in Canada. It is the conclusion that the men desired for political reform of the type so familiar to us at the present moment, reformers who offer us changes in the monetary system, the political system or even the capitalist system.

Such an advertisement is not necessary to call them forth, they come of their own volition—offering their services through the medium of public platforms, or even over the radio in some cases at a cost of $1,000 for three hours.

The reformer I wish to discuss in this week's column is one of a different type entirely. He is best known perhaps, as a social reformer.

Not so very many years ago social reform was a much discussed question, many books were written on the subject, many a dinner of the day had the plot of the story woven around some social issue. There were even social banks in some cities, where the wealthy donated their surplus to the poor at the same time fostered a sense of social responsibility.

Today, social reform seems to be a dead issue. It is no longer a subject of discussion, it is no longer a subject of discussion, it is no longer a subject of discussion.

Work on Longest Cross-Country Line in World Making Progress

By Henry Holt

OTTAWA, Jan. 10.—Work on what will be the longest transcontinental airway in the world, the Trans-Canada airway, is making rapid progress.

While it can scarcely be said that the chain of landing fields stretching across Canada from the Atlantic to the Pacific is a soaring conquest, nevertheless satisfactory progress is being made according to a report in current issue of Canadian Aviation.

Information supplied by federal government officials reveals that the Trans-Canada Airway will be 11,000 miles long, from Halifax to Vancouver. The U.S. transcontinental line is 7,200 miles in length. This means that when complete the Pacific coast will be only about 25 hours by air from the Atlantic.

EVERY 25 MILES

Approximately 114 landing fields, exclusive of municipal airports, will comprise the route. This works out to one landing field every 25 miles. At key points along the route there will be airport headquarters, meteorological and estimating facilities, and at certain points radio broadcasting and beacon communication facilities.

All fields will be equipped with a lighting system, each with a range of 2,000,000 candlepower. Pilots, therefore, will not travel more than 12 or 15 miles away from a beacon at any time.

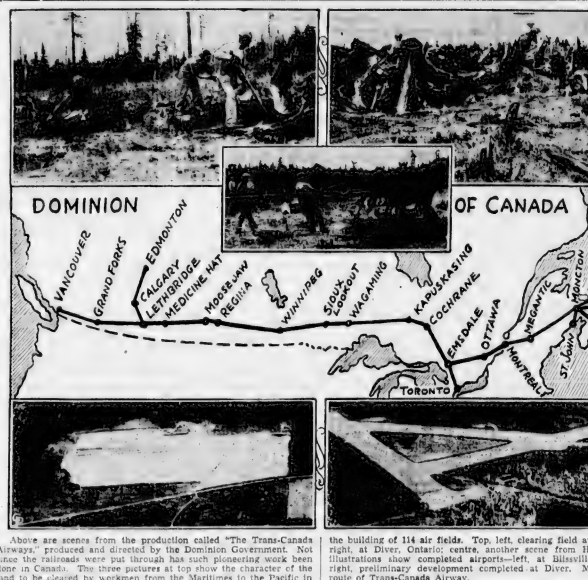

A TITANIC TASK

The work of clearing fields and building modern airports in the heart of Canada is a titanic task. It is a task that has never before been attempted in the history of the world.

Social engineering, however, is like liberty, the removal of external shackles, and the removal of external shackles is a task that has never before been attempted in the history of the world.

Just 100 years were the work of a few men, and the work of a few men is a task that has never before been attempted in the history of the world.

Canada, Japan Both Quit Tennis Play For This Summer

Challengers' List to be Closed to Nations on January 31

LONDON, Jan. 10.—With 13 days still to go before the lists are closed, the British Lawn Tennis Association, holder of the Davis cup, Friday announced 14 nations had entered for the 1936 international tennis competition including China, which has not played since 1928. The deadline is January 31 with the draw scheduled for the next day.

MISSING THIS YEAR
Two challengers of other years, Japan and Canada, are missing. Canada announced it is out of the race this year because of the early dates for the North American zone competition which does not allow it time to get in condition. Japan, under considerable criticism last year for "drafting" the late Jiro Satoh for its team, also apparently has decided not to compete. Satoh committed suicide en route to Kiro for the 1934 play.

China, which lost to the United States five matches to none in its last appearance in cup play, has challenged in the American zone along with the United States, Mexico, Brazil and Uruguay have filed in the South American zone and the other nine in the European zone.

THOSE WILL PLAY
Those which will play in Europe are Australia, Czechoslovakia, France and Germany, the continental of 1934 who automatically qualified, and Holland, Italy, New Zealand, Poland and South Africa. North and South American zone winners will play for the right to meet the European champion in the inter-zone final. The winner will challenge England for the trophy it won from France in 1935.

Care and Management of POULTRY

CARE OF HATCHING EGGS
The time is fast approaching, if not here already, to give this phase of the poultry industry careful consideration. Many commercial hatcheries are lining up their flocks in preparation for the coming Chick season.

Previous articles we have hope have been of material benefit to you in the selection of these birds based on breeding purposes, both male and female. And if this selection of breeding stock has been adhered to and with proper husbandry conditions followed, you will have with suitable feeding, your breeders will feed part, with one further added recommendation, we hope you have had your flock blood tested for the poultryman's most dreaded condition of leucosis or pullorum disease—more of this disease later on. Presuming your flock is now laying and the time for hatching eggs here.

Eggs should be gathered frequently, if weather moderate three or four times a day; if cold, much often, just so long as the eggs are not left to cool. Before the writer recommends they be placed in 15 dozen or 30 dozen cases, the small and deep, before the eggs are placed in the cases they should be graded as to shell texture and color, according to breed and type to type. Never keep to eighty.

Keep eggs in moderate (temperature in reasonable moist atmosphere, and never wash soiled eggs. It is necessary to clean, use small pieces of steel wool. Better still, use steel wool, and when permatin comes and is afterwards soiled off, the germ dies, and in consequence hatchability will be reduced. Remember also that germination life develops in the egg at 58 to 60 degrees, and when permatin comes and is afterwards soiled off, the germ dies, and in consequence hatchability will be reduced.

Measles Fraud Given Long Term
SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 12.—(AP) Evans, twenty-nine, was accused of one of the world's meanest rackets—taking money from old men on the pretext that he could get them jobs.

Today he was sentenced to three years in the county jail, the longest sentence ever meted out in the history of San Francisco's municipal courts.

He was given six months for each of six cases, the sentences to run consecutively. Evans, a white man, was charged with having lured in and kept in his home a large number of old men, ranging in age from sixty-seven to eighty.

Canada, Japan Both Quit Tennis Play For This Summer

Along with "floating power," Hupp offers the "floating ride" based on the combination of a transverse shifting rod in front of a pair of long, soft steel springs, the combination affording another riding aid to all passengers. For further comfort, the body has been three inches longer and wider. And new lines enhance its appearance.
